From the St. Louis Republican of June 30. From New Mexico-The Boundary Ques

We have received our files of the Santa Fé Gazette for May. They are occupied to a great extent with discussions of the Mesilla difficulty and the question of boundary between Mexico and the United States.

On the 11th ultimo a large meeting of citizens of New Mexico assembled in Santa Fé, with a view to some expression of public opinion on this question. In the report adopted by this meeting, drawn up by Judge Joab Houghton, we find the following statement:

"On the 8th of March, 1697, Joseph Sarmiento, Marquis de la Laguna, Viceroy of Mexico under the government of Spain, issued a decree declaring the boundary between New Mexico and New Biscay (now Chihuahua) to be at the Rio Nombre de Dios, or Sacramento, and described the village of El Paso to be within the jurisdiction of New Mexico.

"Don Juan Baptiste Pino, deputy of the province of New Mexico to the Cortes of Spain, in a memorial to that body bearing date Cadiz, 1812, claims for New Mexico jurisdiction to the 28th degree of north latitude; and thus the southern boundary of New Mexico seems to have stood until, by an act of the Mexican Congress, passed degree of north latitude; and thus the southern boundary of New Mexico seems to have stood until, by an act of the Mexican Congress, passed July 27, 1824, the northern limits of the jurisdiction of the town called Pass was made the northern boundary of the province of Chihuahua, and necessarily the southern boundary of New Mexico. In this subsequent year, 1825, Chihuahua was, by an act of the Mexican Congress, erected into a State, with the northern limits as described in the act of 1824. By no subsequent act of the Mexican government has this boundary line been changed.

Mexican government has this boundary line been changed.

"By the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, the southern boundary of New Mexico, as laid down in Disturnell's map, was made a part of the boundary between the two republics.

"The southern boundary of New Mexico, as laid down in Disturnell's map, strikes the Rio Grande at a point not exceeding eight miles above the town called Paso.

"Tracing then all the changes in the position of this boundary under the Mexican government, into the date of the treat, it is glear that New

"Tracing then all the changes in the position of this boundary under the Mexican government, up to the date of the treaty, it is clear that New Mexico extended to the northern limits of the town of El Paso, and that the treaty so contemplated the boundary.

"This territory in dispute was under the jurisdiction of New Mexico as a department of Mexico. The civil authorities of the temporary territorial government from 1846 to 1851, and the territorial government established by the Congress of the United States, continued to exercise jurisdiction over this disputed territory until the fixing of the initial point on the Rio Grande in 1851, at 320 and 22 north latitude, more than forty-eight miles above the town of El Paso, by Commissioner Bartlett.

"The territory was immediately seized upon by

'The territory was immediately seized upon by the Mexican authorities; American citizens lo-cated there were despoiled of their property, and many Mexicans who had commenced the settle-ment of Mesilla, in 1847, with the understanding that they were placing themselves under the protection of the Government of the United States tection of the Government of the United States, found themselves, against their will, again under the Mexican government. Many of these citizens appealed to the then executive officer of this territory, but in vain."

Commissioner Bartlett, in support of the claims of Chihuahua to the Mesilla valley, refers to a survey made in 1834 by Staples and Conde, and a map based upon it which fix the southern boundary of Chihuahua, and of course the southern boundary of New Mexico, at 32 degrees 57 minutes and 43 seconds. The Santa Fé Gazette, commenting upon this, says:

commenting upon this, says:
"The survey made by Messrs. Staples and Conde in the year 1834 was not adopted by the government of Mexico, nor was it ever agreed to by the territory of New Mexico; it was an act on the part of Chihuahua for which she had no authority. We excell wave in Chihuahua the thority. We ourself were in Chihuahua at the time this survey was made by Mr. Staples, and eak understandingly about it."
Santa Fé Gazette, of the 14th ultimo, says:

"Señor Salezor, the newly-appointed Mexican Boundary Commissioner, who has arrived in El Paso, states, as we are informed by a letter from there, that if the Government of the United States refuses to confirm the boundary as already run, Mexico will regard it as a declaration of war."

The ship Carrier Pigeon, Captain Doane, went shore on June 6th on Point New Year, thirty miles south of San Francisco. Two steamers were sent to the wreck, who succeeded in saving twelve hundred packages of light merchandise. The ship and a considerable portion of her cargo have proved a total loss. The steamer Sea Bird, which had been sent to the assistance of the Car-rier Pigeon, was beached while taking off the carrier Pigeon, was beached while taking off the cargo, and at the last accounts was going to pieces. A duel was fought on Saturday merning near Mission Dolores, between Edward Tobey, clerk to the Assistant Aldermen of San Francisco, and Dr. Alfred Crane, late of Alexandria, Louisiana. On the second fire Crane was shot through the body, and died on Sunday.

On Friday, the 10th ultimo, a duel was fought near San Francisco between Thomas Hayes, Assistant Aldermen, and John Nugent, editor of the San Francisco Herald, with pistols, at twenty paces distance. On the second fire Nugent was wounded, and when the steamer suiled was conconsidered in a critical situation.

The duel between Messrs. Gwin and McCorkle had terminated without bloodshed. Three ineffectual shots were fired, when the matter was satisfactorily adjusted.

The ship Pathfinder had arrived, with Hong Kong (China) dates of April 27th, and Shanghai dates of April 15th. The capture of Nankin and subsequent defeat of the rebels is fully confirmed. The Hong Kong Herald gives the details of various cruelties practiced by the insurgents. They are making an indiscriminate slaughter of the Buddhist priests as well as of the Manchows. At Nankin they enticed 700 Manchow women into one building, and then set fire to it, reducing the whole to ashes. They also pressed every Chinese between the ages of fifteen and forty-five into the army, killing the children as useless, and making the women cooks and scullions. At Nankin the leader of the rebels had been crowned Emperor.

A Case of Slave Stealing .- William H. Weeks was tried on Saturday in the criminal court for stealing a negro slave woman. It appeared in evidence that Mr. John D. Ward, of Calvert county, Maryland, conveyed this and other negroes o a Mr. Parran, who shortly after conveyed them back to Mr. Richard Ward-some directly, others in trust for other children of Mr. Ward, and this particular slave in trust for Benjamin Ward, a minor. Weeks married the daughter of Mr. John D. Ward, and this negro was suffered to remain with him for some time to nurse a child, when he carried her to Baltimore and sold her. The elder Ward recovered the slave and carried her back to Calvert county. In December last, Mr. Richard Ward, the trustee, brought the negro to Washington, and hired her to a Mr. Rollins. She remained here till some months since, when Weeks seized her in the street, whither she had been sent on a message, and conveyed her across the Eastern Branch, where he kept her till night, when he brought her to the steamboat wharf for the purpose of carrying her to Alexandria to be there delivered to one John C. Thompson, with whom he had previously made arrangements for her purchase, r to whom in fact he had sold her. Weeks and his wife claimed that the negro had een given to her by her father shortly after the narriage; and on this point there was a variety of stimony. The marriage was one which took place against the wishes of the lady's parents, and aused considerable ill-feeling in the family. Weeks was tried in 1852, in Calvert county, ealing the same negro, and was acquitted. The case was closed about five o'clock, and, after absence of a few minutes, the jury rendered a verdict of not guilty. Samuel Cooper, Gilbert Custis, and Benjan

Ringgold, free negroes, were convicted of a riot, and were sentenced each to be imprisoned one week in jail—they having been in jail for some time previous. Mr. Ratcliffe conducted the defence in bove cases.

Yesterday, Vandora Otez, the Mexican, conricted of stealing a gold watch of the value of fifty dollars, was sentenced to the penitentiary for two years. Timothy Gainor, Edward Buckly, John Edvards, Patrick Sexton, and Charles Parrot, all whites, were convicted of riotous and disorderly conduct. Buckly and Sexton were sent to jail for three months each; the others, being utterly disgusted with jury trials, retired from the courthouse upon the rendition of the verdict, and will receive sentence hereafter.

In view of this condition of things, it would seem just that the Guard be ade quately paid for a faithful performance of duty

In connexion with this subject, it may be stated that Captain Birch is attentive, prompt, and courteous, and has, since his appointment as chief of the Guard, (so far as our observation extends,) shown himself to be an excellent officer. Considering the immense area within the bounds of the Corporation, and the small number of the Guard, we presume that, to say the least, the public peace is as well preserved here as it is in any other city of the Union.

MORTALITY .- The number of deaths in this city during June, 1852, was larger than it was in the corresponding month of the present year. There were at that time one hundred and seven deaths; now eighty-six, or a difference of twenty one favorable to the present season. For each period the interment of thirty-eight adults is recorded, and the excess of twenty-one in 1852 was owing to the greater mortality among children than in 1853 during the month of June.
